B47 Hits Five Houses, Trailer Homes; Five Dead

Young Couple, Plane Crew of Three Killed

Six-Jet Bomber
Crashes, Explodes
Near Lake Charles, La.

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—A crippled B47 Stratojet bomber, on a radar-guided emergency approach to its fogged-in base, crashed and exploded into five houses and several trailer homes late Monday night.

Five persons—the plane's three-man crew and a young couple in the one house which burned—perished in the fiery crash. A man who was in a trailer which was destroyed was badly burned.

The six-jet bomber struck power and communication lines, cut a swath through the top of a pine forest, crashed to earth at the edge of a line of trees and skidded about 60 yards before exploding.

The initial explosion and a series of lesser blasts from apparent live ammunition scattered the fiery wreckage over the residential area. The scene was four and one-half miles northwest of the Lake Charles Base.

In addition to the house and trailer destroyed, four other houses and two trailers were heavily damaged.

Albert Morgan, 24, and his wife, 20, were burned to death in their home which was nearest the exploding plane.

The airbase identified the dead crewmen as Capt. Clarence Wilson, 34, of California, Pa., pilot and commander of the plane; Mark Beck, 35, Downsville, Calif., copilot; and Capt. Elwyn McBee, 33, Fort Worth, Tex., observer.

Wing Joints Trailer
T-Sgt. James Sapp, who lived in one of the trailers, was carried to the base hospital with third-degree burns.

LT. Eddy Jones, of the air base, said his trailer home was struck by one wing of the plane, but he suffered only slight shock.

One of the jet engines broke away from the plane when it hit, rolled down the street, smashed a car and hit the front porch of one of the trailers.

Robert Thompson, a radio station program director who lives about 400 feet from the crash scene said Air Force officials told him the one engine on the plane was the ship and the ship was attempting to land at the base about a mile away.

Fire in Night Clothes
The crash and initial explosion sent residents of the area screaming into their yards in their night clothes.

The residents witnessed subsequent smaller explosions of apparent live ammunition which was aboard. The $2,250,000 plane fires 20 mm. cannon and the explosions could have been dummy bombs. Ironically, the crash occurred on the eve of a city vote on a $5,500,000 bond issue which could decide whether the Air Force will make the nearby base a permanent one. It was the second fatal crash by one of the bombers this year. On Jan. 5 this year two of the big planes collided in the area. One plummeted into the Gulf of Mexico while the other limped back to its base.

No trace was ever found of the three crewmen of the crashed plane nor parachuted into the Gulf from the plane which made it back to its base.

Voters Selecting Candidates for Final City Election

Voters of the city of Harrisburg today were choosing their candidates for the final city election, which will be held April 19.

Being selected at the eight voting places in the city were two nominees for mayor, eight for commissioner and two for police magistrate. In April the voters will choose a mayor, four commissioners and a police magistrate.

Voting appeared light this morning but some veteran campaigners said they believed it was about normal for a city election, as the bulk of the vote comes out in the afternoon.

Polls were to close at 5 p. m. and it was believed that the complete results will be known between 8 and 9 p. m.

Matusow Says Some Congress Groups More Dangerous Than Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Admitted liar Harvey M. Matusow said today he thinks the Communist party is "not nearly as dangerous" to the nation "as certain congressional committees."

He did not name the committees but when asked if he considered the Communist party a "real danger," the turn-about witness said: "Frankly, no."

Matusow was questioned for the third day by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee about his claim that he gave false testimony as a government witness against Communists at court trials and before congressional committees.

He stuck to his latest story that he does not know whether his publishers, Angus Cameron and Albert E. Kahn, are Communists. He said last week he "believed" they are.

"I Don't Know"
"I have no opinion," Matusow said. "I don't know one way or the other."

Twister Hits Youngstown, O.; Woman Killed

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A baby twister cut a 100-foot wide path through three city blocks in an East Side residential district this morning, killing a 34-year-old mother, hospitalizing nine others, and causing damage estimated at more than $125,000.

The body of Betty Fallat, mother of a three-year-old boy, was found next to her demolished home. Four other homes were leveled and 12 others were ripped from their foundations.

All the homes were part of a four-year-old housing project and were valued at between $8,000 and $10,000.

The twister came at the height of a violent electrical storm that ripped through Ohio.

The Ohio Highway Patrol reported that a lake near Olive Branch, Ohio, in southwestern Clermont county, which touches Kentucky, was threatening to break through a dam.

The patrol said the dam was moved from its original base downstream some 65 to 70 feet by the force of the lake waters, fortified by recent heavy rainstorms.

Some 10 families in the area were ordered to evacuate their homes until the flood danger passes.

North of this area, vast damage was caused by Monday night's violent storms although no injuries were reported. Damage to trees, power lines and buildings was estimated at $100,000.

Fined $750, Costs In Gallatin Court

A Johnson county man charged with possessing and selling obscene literature pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge Joe Hale of Gallatin county and was fined $750 plus $35 court costs.

He was C. F. Cochran of Vienna, picked up by state officers on a warrant issued in Gallatin county. The officers said Cochran was charged with selling obscene booklets at Omaha which got into the hands of teen-agers.

Additional Rain Provides More Water for City

Additional rainfall which came last night accompanied by strong winds and lightning sent the creeks rising, which means Lake Harrisburg and the city reservoir continued to get more water today.

Rainfall in Harrisburg measured .37 inch, but apparently the fall in areas around here were higher, judging from the water coming down the streams.

At Galatia, the windstorm was so bad that power and telephone service were knocked out during the night. Harrisburg street lights went out during the storm.

About seventy million gallons of water had been pumped into the north reservoir between 1:30 p. m. Saturday and 1:30 p. m. today, and some water was still pouring into the borrow pit from flooded fields.

Middle Fork and Bankston creeks yesterday began falling following the weekend rains and at midnight the level had dropped to three feet, which necessitated the stopping of the 3,000 and the 750 gallons per minute pumps, leaving the big 14,200 gallon pump still in operation.

However, during the early morning hours the creek began rising and at 9 a. m. the level was ten and a half feet, which sent the streams out of their banks in places. All pumps were at 4 a. m.

With the continuous pumping into the reservoir, the body of water had risen about five feet, ten inches between Saturday afternoon and 9 a. m. today. That put the level about 20 inches from capacity.

R. D. Brown, engineer, visited Lake Harrisburg this morning and said the lake rose another foot between 5 p. m. yesterday and mid-morning. He estimated there are at least 150,000 million gallons of water in the lake at present.

Allen Discusses Pioneer Schools In PTA Founders' Day Address

"Pioneer Schools in Southern Illinois" was the topic of discussion at the annual PTA Founders' Day program held Monday evening at the McKinley school in Harrisburg.

The speaker for the evening was John W. Allen, noted historian with the Information Service at Southern Illinois university.

Mr. Allen, a former teacher in the Harrisburg city school system and for 13 years superintendent of schools in Eldorado, discussed at length one of the first schools established in this section of the state.

In the early 1800's a school was established south and east of the present location of Broughton, Mr. Allen stated. It was a subscription school—contracts were made between the teacher and families in the area for the children to pay a certain amount and agree to attend classes for a determined length of time.

Have Come a Long Way
This school was a one-room building, 16 by 18 feet, made of hand hewn logs. The benches were also logs, there were two pegs in the wall to support a slab which served as the writing desk. Other pegs and a slab held the water bucket and a gourd for drinking purposes hung from the wall.

With a sweep of his hand to take in the McKinley school building, Mr. Allen remarked, "we have come a long way in providing facilities for educational purposes."

There were no prescribed courses of study in the early days and few text books, Mr. Allen said, and all studying was done out loud. The speaker, who started to

Missing British Scientist Reveals He Is Working on Russian Atomic Projects

MOSCOW (AP)—Prof. Bruno Pontecorvo, the British atomic scientist who visited U. S. and Canadian atomic stations before he vanished in 1950, has been working in Russia for several years, the news papers Izvestia and Pravda reported today.

A signed article by the 42-year-old Italian-born atomic genius appeared to his former colleagues in the United States, Canada, Britain, Italy and France to demand a world ban on atomic weapons, and to work only for peaceful uses of the atom.

It said he had been working on atomic energy research for the Soviet Union because of his hatred for atomic warfare born with the "bloody and base experiment of Hiroshima."

Denies Being Kidnaped
Pontecorvo, in the first indication he definitely was in Russia, said his wife and three children were with him and that they had been granted political asylum. He denied he had been kidnaped by Soviet agents.

Observers here said he probably was not in Moscow but more likely at some Russian equivalent of Britain's atomic research plant at Harwell, where he once worked as one of Britain's top scientists.

A government spokesman in London told the House of Commons soon after his disappearance he had "no doubt" Pontecorvo, one of the colleagues of German-born traitor Klaus Fuchs, had gone to Russia and that he had "important information" he may have given to Moscow. Fuchs was sentenced to 14 years in prison for giving atomic secrets to the Russians.

The article, signed "Professor and Stalin Prize Winner Bruno Pontecorvo," appeared both in the official Communist organ Pravda and the official government newspaper Izvestia.

Ridicules U. S. Britain
"In 1950 the atmosphere was such that I could no longer breathe," he said. "The question that the police asked of me made me realize that I could no longer preserve my personality where I was."

Pontecorvo did not specify where he was working in the Soviet Union, but observers noted that since he stated he was working on atomic energy research the lack of pinpointing his location was not surprising.

He thanked the Soviet government for the car and attention given to his family and said, "My place of work is excellent. The technical equipment is remarkable and research is conducted on a large front and a high level."

"Following world events with attention, I have become convinced that the imperialists of such countries as the United States and Britain have, despite the hopes of the peoples, entirely subordinated the discovery of atomic energy to the interests of preparing another war with the use of atomic and nuclear weapons to achieve world domination."

The decisions adopted by the NATO bloc in December 1954 (to rearm a free West Germany) once again confirmed it.

"The peace-loving proposals of the Soviet government meet with no response on the part of the governments of a number of capitalist countries. They are not being presented to broad public opinion," he said.

Peabody said he submitted his resignation in a policy dispute with other members of the board over opening a new mine in southern Illinois.

Peabody, who became president of the firm in 1946, said he does not believe that the proposed new mine would be profitable, but a majority of the board opposes him.

Otto Gressens, president of Peabody, said the board met Monday but that Peabody's resignation was not submitted then.

"It's news to me," Gressens said this morning.

Peabody said that when the board of directors voted against him he went home and prepared his resignation on the Peabody firm's letterhead and mailed it after the meeting.

The mine which the firm intends to open was believed to be near Belleville, Ill. The company had previously indicated that it might develop that property.

"I don't think now is the time to start up a new mine," Peabody said in an interview with the United Press. "I believe the company should hold the property, but expanding now is wrong."

The firm shouldn't stick out its neck," he said. "It is beginning to show a profit on the basis of policies I started. It may be disastrous to change now."

Peabody, 40, became chairman of the board last fall. He had been with the firm since 1937. He said the Peabody family holds less than 10 per cent of the coal company's stock. He said he had been selling his stock in the firm and may eventually dispose of all of his holdings.

His resignation statement said his policies and economies are responsible for the firm's marked improvement in earnings.

His resignation, he said, is occurring at this time "because he has continuously disagreed with policies for the future favored by a majority of the board of directors."

In particular, he disagrees with the proposed opening of a new mine in southern Illinois.

Peabody said in a release to the press.

The resigning chairman said the major reason for the company's profitable position has been the "closing of certain southern Illinois mines a year ago" when he was president.

Peabody's stand on the proposed new mine is that he does not believe it can compete profitably at this time with existing strip mines. He said the proposed expansion "will endanger current profitable operations."

House Approves Increase by 223-113 Vote

Hike is Effective Today When Signed By Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House passed and sent to the White House today a bill to raise congressional salaries to $22,500 a year.

The legislation, previously approved by the Senate, gives lawmakers a 50 per cent pay raise. Their salaries were $15,000 a year. The House vote, on a roll call forced by Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) was 223-113.

When President Eisenhower signs the legislation, the pay increase will be effective as of today.

It was the third time House members had voted on the politically touchy question of raising their own pay.

The measure was twice sent to a House-Senate conference committee before its present provisions were worked out. The new version eliminated earlier proposals for a $1,250 tax-free expense account and five free round trips home per year.

Members of Congress now receive $12,500 a year, plus a taxable $2,500 expense account and one government-paid trip home a year at the rate of 20 cents a mile.

The original compromise bill was approved by the House but rejected by the Senate last Friday. Many senators objected to the earlier provision for a tax-free expense account. They said they wanted all their pay taxable to avoid disguised pay raises.

House members, irked by Senate rejection of the tax-free expense account, then objected to increasing the number of free trips home.

The new salary scale, which would become effective today, also provides proportionate salary increases for federal judges and attorneys. Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Speaker Sam Rayburn would have their salaries raised from $40,000 a year to $45,000.

Supreme Court justices would be raised from $25,000 to $35,000, lower court judges from $15,000 to $22,500 and higher court judges from $17,500 to $25,500.

Keyserling Upholds Tax Cut

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland predicted today that the Treasury will ask President Eisenhower to veto the $20-per-person tax cut if Congress passes it.

Meanwhile, Leon Keyserling, chairman of former President Truman's Council of Economic Advisors, hailed the proposed cut as just what the country needs to reduce joblessness and help business.

These conflicting points of view were aired as the Senate Finance committee headed toward a vote late today on the tax cut measure which squeaked through the House 210-205 last Friday.

Mr. Eisenhower and his chief fiscal aide, Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey, have denounced the proposed cut, fathered by the House Democratic leadership, as an inflationary act which would hurt rather than help the poor.

Keyserling, testifying before the Senate committee, called that contention nonsense. He said deflation is a greater threat to the national economy than inflation.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY
We must through much tribulation enter into the kingdom of God.—Acts 14:22.

The governments of two vast countries have tried to close the door. There are still multitudes of martyrs, they think it worth while to suffer.

A False Witness

In 1950, Harvey Matusow, three-year veteran of the Communist Party at that time, turned federal informer. He continued contacts with the FBI for nearly a year before the party expelled him in early 1951.

Thereafter he began appearing before various House and Senate committees investigating subversion. Altogether he testified more than 25 times and named about 180 persons by name. He was a paid government witness at the conspiracy trial of 13 second-string Communist leaders in New York. He advised Senator McCarthy during his inquiry into America's overseas libraries.

Now Matusow, preparing to go on record in a book called "False Witness," says he falsely informed on many people. He says he deliberately manufactured some of his testimony. He says he did this because he was a "good racketeer" and he liked the "glamor" enjoyed by the professional ex-Communist.

Obviously, Matusow has lied at least twice. As a Communist, he would have lied regularly because that is a compulsory Red tactic. Thereafter, either he lied when he informed or he is lying now when he says some of that performance was false.

We must try to figure out when he ever told the truth, because the reputations of some innocent persons may well be involved. But the real reason is to beware of the professional "confessed sinner." A man should gain no automatic stature because he was wrong before he was right.

Start the Day Right

Men have been saying for a long time that women are far worse than they when it comes to a test of manners and general public behavior. If this is really so, an economics research bureau may have hit upon one good reason for it.

You know what the men say. Women can power their way to the counter in a department store with all the fury of All-America Alan "The Horse" Ameh. They drive for a bus door with the electronic accuracy and force of a guided missile.

Often they aren't much better on the other side of the counter. If the poor male has trouble deciding on a purchase, the sales girl may unload a sigh heavy with disgust, glower, or snarl as if to say: "Well, make up yer mind."

Now the family economics bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance Company has been making a little survey which may have some bearing here. It checked the breakfast habits of 1600 white-collar workers, and found that nearly half the women under 25 usually eat little or nothing before going to work. Less than a fourth eat a good breakfast, and about 32 percent down one that can be rated "fair."

Well, no wonder they're so edgy. Doctors and nutritionists say that for good health and alert mental performance a person should eat a fourth of his day's food at breakfast time. Without this, anybody is likely to be lean, hungry, and a little bit mean.

Obviously, this survey doesn't explain where housewives don't on the town get THEIR aggressive ways. But maybe they're making a little progress.

What we seem to need is a vigorous campaign for bigger and better breakfasts. Possibly the etiquette books should devote their opening chapters to breakfast menus.

We've got to break in on this thing somewhere, men, and breakfast seems as good a starting point as any.

DEWITT'S PILLS

High Noon

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
New U. S. Judge Figures In Drunken Driving Incident; Republican Cabinet Is Just A Bunch Of Saints; McCarthy's Communist Charges Meant To Reflect On Acheson, But Backfired On Byrnes.

WASHINGTON — It isn't often that a newly elected senator has a chance to spike the White House on a judicial appointment after he takes office, but that is the position in which Senator Dick Neuberger of Oregon, Democrat, finds himself as a result of an automobile incident near the Oregon coast.

U. S. District Judge William East, whom Eisenhower has just nominated, figured in this incident. In fact, a total of three judges were held briefly under suspicion of drunken driving after attending an all-day judicial meeting at Coos Bay, Ore., on Jan. 23.

Driving home afterwards, their car brushed that of Wayne Warner, a Eugene, Ore., car salesman, who reported to the chief of police in near-by Reedsport that three judges were drunk. Warner did not know, however, that he was turning in a newly designated federal judge, who was driving the car at the time of the incident, together with Judges Frank B. Reed and Chester Anderson, Oregon county judges.

The state police immediately put out a call for a "possible 31" which is the code number for drunken driving.

When apprehended, U. S. Judge East had relinquished the wheel to Judge Reed, and Judge Anderson was fast asleep in the back seat. Judge Reed was submitted to the ignominy of an on-the-spot incubation test, after which the state policeman reported that on the basis of this test he couldn't "conscientiously" arrest him for drunken driving.

However, the patrolman did not permit the three judges to drive their car back to the police station. He made them park their car on side of the road, in itself suspicious, and drove them back himself.

It developed later that the three judges were, to quote one policeman, "abusive as hell." Or, as the police chief put it, they seemed to resent being brought to a "small police station." Finally, after being held about an hour, they were released.

What makes this interesting politically is the fact that Senator Neuberger had already given his ok on the appointment of Judge East. Senators enjoy a unique position when it comes to judicial appointments, in that one senator can usually block a judge's confirmation.

Following the traffic incident, Senator Neuberger asked the FBI for a full report. Says Neuberger: "I would like to know whether the new appointee is going to be as sober as a judge."

SAINTLY CABINET MEMBERS
In words that dripped molasses, White House aide Max Rabb described the saintly qualities of the new appointees the other day to a seminar of clergymen.

As cabinet secretary, the ebullient Rabb was expected to say nice things about his bosses. But he outdid himself, pouring on the sticky, sweet praise. He called Secretary of State Dulles a "god-fearing" and adorned the other cabinet members with equally ecstatic adjectives.

Afterward the reverend gentlemen were invited to submit questions in writing. The one that stopped Rabb was a scribbled note, asking: "Do you have a special room at the White House for the cabinet members to check their halos?"

CHARGES BACKFIRE ON GOP
It has been kept secret all these years, but Senator McCarthy's 1950 charges against the State Department did not reflect upon his intended victim, then Secretary of State Acheson, so much as the darling of the Republicans — former Secretary of State Byrnes.

Long-suppressed figures show that Byrnes appointed 57 of the 73 State Department employees on McCarthy's "subversive list." Acheson appointed only four, including the re-appointment of Philip Jessup who was first hired by GOP Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes in 1924.

McCarthy's actual list contained 81 names, but one was a duplication and seven never worked for the State Department at all. Another 32 were ex-employees, who weren't working for the State Department at the time of McCarthy's charges.

This left 41 of the original 81 alleged "Communists" on the payroll in 1950. Of these, not a single one has ever been proved to be a Communist. Two were removed as "security risks," which could mean they were drunk, blabbermouths or otherwise undesirable. Another three resigned while under "security" investigation. Ten of Joe's suspects still work for the State Department today. The remaining resigned, retired, died or transferred to other agencies — their loyalty records clean.

In order not to embarrass Byrnes, who bolted to the Republicans in 1952, McCarthy withheld the fact that most of his alleged "Communists" were hired by Byrnes. Two were hired by Hughes' back in 1924, and two others got their jobs from GOP secretaries Frank Kellogg and Henry Stimson, respectively. The breakdown also attributes six to Cordell Hull; five to George Marshall; four to Dean Acheson; two to Edward Stettin; one to Robert Lovett, and 57 to James Byrnes. (A few are duplications, reapportioned by more than one secretary.)

But the most significant fact is that Joe McCarthy, after five years of shouting red, has yet to find his first Communist in the State Department.

Note — The whole time Joe was Senate investigating chairman, he never held a single hearing in an attempt to prove his original State Department charges. He has also done nothing about the ten whom he once called "Communists," but who are still working at the State Department, cleared by his pal, security chief Scott McLeod.

PUERTO RICO SCARE
The public never knew it, but Washington undercover men were secretly alerted last week for another Puerto Rican assassination attempt. Security regulations were doubled at the White House and Capitol Hill. Special bodyguards were also assigned to cabinet and subcommittee officers, particularly Secretary of the Interior Doug McKay, who has jurisdiction over Puerto Rico.

The warning came from an anonymous telephone tipster who called the FBI, then hung up without giving his name. Taking no chances, the FBI alerted the Secret Service and other security forces, and a closer guard was thrown around all officials who might be attacked by Puerto Rican fanatics.

TRADE BILL SABOTAGE
President Eisenhower is furious at New York's hard-headed Congressman Dan Reed for double-crossing him on the reciprocal trade bill. Ike received what he considered an "iron-clad guarantee" from Reed that he would not sabotage the trade program. However, Reed not only did his best to wreck the program, but wouldn't even let Congressman Bob Keating of New Jersey present the President's views on Republican time. Reed gruffly told Kean to give his speech on Democratic time. Yet Kean was a Republican, speaking for a Republican president.

Indiana Plans Seaport On Lake Michigan
INDIANAPOLIS — Indiana senators have laid the groundwork for construction of a huge seaport along the Hoosier shore of Lake Michigan.

They passed, 40-3, and sent to the House Monday a bill appropriating 1½ million dollars to buy land for the port and creating a nine-man commission to operate it.

The bill would purchase land for harbor facilities to serve ocean-going ships once the St. Lawrence Seaway is opened in 1959. It would be about a 30-million-dollar project, with the state and federal governments sharing the cost.

A total amount of $10,000 in scholarships will be awarded including five $500 free college scholarships, thirty $200 free college scholarships, and thirty $50 awards. The winners will be announced about May 16.

This is the tenth year this scholarship program has been offered for the purpose of encouraging talented youth requiring financial assistance to continue their education. Last year the general aptitude test was administered to 8,911 high-ranking members of chapters of the National Honor Society in 2,210 public and private secondary schools in all states, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Canal Zone, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and American schools in Germany, Japan, and Mexico.

The winners selected will be determined by their aptitude tests and by further consideration of the candidates' school-community records and need for financial assistance.

Three Soldiers Hanged for Murder

LANSING, Kan. (AP)—The Army hanged three Negro soldiers today for murdering a taxi driver.

Sent under black hoods to the gallows at the state prison were Chauncey Beverly, 25, of Bally, Va.; James L. Riggs, 28, of Birmingham, Ala.; and Louis M. Suttles, 20, of Chattanooga, Tenn.

All were stationed at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., when taxi driver Harry Langley of Waynesville, Mo., was robbed of $150 Sept. 20, 1961, stoned and left to die in a wooded area of the Army reservation. The trio took his cab, but one of the soldiers lost his car containing his serial number at the scene.

Legislature Urged to Overhaul Entire State Personnel System

BULLETIN

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The Illinois House refused today to revive a proposal to investigate the state's toll road program. The measure got a vote of 74-64. It needed 77 votes.

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The Illinois Legislature was urged today to overhaul the whole system of state personnel administration.

A special legislative commission outlined its 42-page report before a joint session of the House and Senate.

It recommended passage of a personnel code that would make "a complete overhaul and revision" in personnel administration.

The proposal would create a new state agency, ranking as a code department, to supervise personnel administration.

The commission said it had aimed at devising a system that would "protect not only the state employees against spoils politics, but would also protect the public against incompetency, inefficiency and payroll padding."

The joint session was the main business of the Legislature this morning. Afterward, the House plunged into debate on a move to revive a proposal to investigate the Illinois Toll Roads Commission, sponsored by Waukegan Democrat Jack Bairstow and others.

Both houses held separate one-hour meetings before the joint session, passing a few minor bills. The Senate advanced the Broyles "anti-subversive" bills to amendment stage.

A flock of new bills was introduced. Sen. Dennis J. Collins (R-DeKalb) and four other senators brought in one to create a commission to report on the possibility of a bonus to Korean War veterans by June 1.

Sen. John P. Meyer (R-Danville) submitted a bill to allow the physically disabled to cast absentee ballots. Gov. William G. Stratton has endorsed such a move.

Sen. Robert McClary (R-Lake Bluff) proposed a law to prohibit the sale of autos which lack good mufflers. Two other senators submitted a bill to fine motorists who leave their parked cars unlocked.

The proposed new code would consolidate all laws now applying to state employees, and create a state department of personnel as "an arm of the governor in administering an effective personnel program."

There would still be a state civil service commission, with three members. They would perform functions of a "police" and "quasi-judicial" nature.

An advisory board to the personnel department would be set up. This would consist of nine citizens "proficient" in the field of employee administration, named by the governor.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

This "Tip" is not concerned directly with traffic safety, but it is concerned with courtesy. The driver who makes courtesy an important part of his driving is usually a safe driver, and his courtesy is not limited to pedestrians and other drivers as possible accident sources. It is extended to them as fellow human beings.

The period of the year in which we now find ourselves might readily be described as the "sloppy" time of year. Melting snow and ice frequently make a pond of slush of city streets. It is a time when the courteous driver will proceed with considerable more caution than he would do on dry pavements, not only for his own safety but also to avoid splashing slush on people standing near the curb.

You are not only the driver of a motor vehicle. You are also a pedestrian. As a pedestrian, you either have had the experience of getting your freshly-cleaned coat or suit splattered with slush by some inconsiderate driver who went through a puddle as if he were piloting a motor boat, or you have come very close to it. When you change from pedestrian to driver, remember that experience, and don't subject others to it. Try being courteous—it's contagious.

A copy of the completely new "Rules of the Road" booklet will be sent to you free upon request. Write to CHARLES F. CARPENTIER, Secretary of State, Springfield, Illinois.

Kilauea Volcano Erupts Near Hilo, Hawaii

By United Press

Nature showed off her most violent phenomena in various sections of the world today, staging a volcanic eruption, tornado, earthquake, flood and severe fog.

Kilauea Volcano near Hilo, Hawaii, broke a long period of quiet and sent a stream lava flowing over valuable sugarland. About 335 villagers took flight at Kapoho.

Seismographs at the California Institute of Technology near Pasadena recorded a "good-sized" earthquake, "somewhere in North America or possibly in the West Indies" during the night. Scientists were still trying to pinpoint the exact locale. Fordham University recorded a shock believed to have occurred in Alaska.

A "baby" tornado cut a 100-foot wide swath through three city blocks at Youngstown, Ohio, killing one woman, hospitalizing nine others and causing $125,000 damage.

Fifty-five persons were listed as dead in the sixth day of floods rampaging across eastern sections of Australia.

Fog was considered a factor in two airplane crashes.

At Lake Charles, La., a crippled B47 bomber smashed into five houses and several trailer homes Monday night as it tried for a radar-guided landing. Five persons were killed, including the plane's three-man crew and a young couple in one of the shattered homes.

A Marine jet F9F fighter disappeared over fog-bound Lake Michigan and was presumed to have gone down into the lake.

Contempt Citation Against Jefferson County Officials

MOUNT VERNON, Ill. (AP)—A contempt of court citation today hung over the Jefferson County state's attorney and his assistant. It could be lifted only if they apologized to the county judge.

County Judge Dale Andrews imposed the citation Monday against State's Atty. Demetri Hassakis and Asst. State's Atty. Milton Ecker. The citation suspended their right to practice in Andrews' court for 30 days and extended the suspension past this date if they fail to deliver "a satisfactory written apology" to the court.

The citation charged Hassakis and Ecker "have failed to maintain respect for and uphold the dignity of Andrews' court contrary to their oaths as attorneys and county officials."

The order said Hassakis and Ecker "have disrupted the orderly procedures" and "caused public ridicule" of the court.

Andrews told newsmen the citation was not based "on any one act" but was handed down because of a "series of miscellaneous acts" since he took office last September.

Saturday the state's attorney issued a review of the duties of the County Court probation officer for the consideration of the County Board. This statement by the state's attorney came after Andrews had asked the board to increase the salary of his court's probation officer, whom the judge appointed.

Andrews is a Democrat. Hassakis is a Republican.

UN Reports Israeli Attack On Egypt Forces

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—The United Nations Mixed Armistice Commission said today Israeli troops made a "violent attack" Monday night against Egyptian troops in the Gaza area.

An official Egyptian casualty report listed 38 persons killed, including 36 soldiers and two civilians, and 31 wounded, including 29 troops and two civilians.

The blazing battle created the most serious threat to the peace of the tense area since the end of the Palestine war.

Egypt angrily threatened "swift retaliation."

An Egyptian communique said the surprise attack developed into a three hour battle in which the Israeli forces finally were driven out of the Gaza strip—a finger of desert land 25 miles long and 5 to 18 miles wide, jutting up from Egypt and awarded to Egypt under the armistice settlement which ended the war between the hostile neighbors.

Says Egyptians Were Attacked

A report issued by the Mixed Armistice Commission after an inspection at the scene said the attack centered on 10 Egyptian military positions near the Gaza railway station.

It said a large quantity of explosives, plus "Molotov cocktails" (bottles of gasoline), grenades, mortars and automatic weapons were used in the attack.

Egyptian sources said one high-ranking officer was among the Egyptian dead. The Mixed Armistice Commission was told that Egyptian reinforcements have

Leopold Again To Seek Freedom

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Nathan Leopold, 1924 "thrill killer" of Bobby Franks in one of Chicago's most celebrated murder cases, is making another bid for freedom from prison.

The Illinois Parole and Pardon Board Monday received a request from Leopold for a rehearing on its action of May 14, 1953, denying Leopold a parole and continuing his case to 1965.

The board said it will consider Leopold's request at a session that starts in the state armory here March 16.

Truck, Auto Collide Near Muddy

A truck driven by J. H. Basinger of Harrisburg and an auto driven by Bruce Girot of Galatia Route 1 collided and were damaged considerably yesterday afternoon on Route 45 at Muddy. There were no injuries.

State Policeman Guthrie Alexander, who with State Officer Michael Taggart investigated, said that Girot pulled out onto the highway upon which Basinger was traveling. Girot was given a traffic ticket charging failure to yield the right-of-way.

in Tel Aviv a military spokesman said the Egyptians entered Israel from the Gaza strip, a bit of Egyptian-held land thrusting into Israel along the coast, and opened fire on Israeli troops.

The United States and Britain, charged with overseeing the United Nations armistice, immediately discussed the matter with Egyptian authorities.

Pope to Observe His 79th Birthday

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII will celebrate his 79th birthday Tuesday. He is in much better health and more active than he was a year ago.

The leader of the world's 425 million Catholics is steadily gaining strength following the severe attack of gastritis and the hernia that caused world-wide fears for his life last December.

Robin's Shooting Rebounded with Buckeye Sophomore Quitting School

By NEA Service
COLUMBUS, O.—(NEA)—Those Robin Freeman jump shots—which had been driving Ohio State opponents crazy earlier this season—apparently were too much for Robin, too.

A thoroughly mixed-up Freeman is back at his Cincinnati home, and it is doubtful whether the fantastic-shooting Buckeye sophomore ever will appear in a college game again. It was only a few weeks ago that midwestern basketball people were calling this 5-11 radar-eye the finest outside shot in the sport's history. Every place Robin went—at Northwestern or Iowa or his own Ohio State court—he pumped points through as quickly as the scoreboard could blink. In 13 games, he stuck in 409 points with his fadeaway, throw-from-behind-the-head shot.

But while his shots were building a scoring record out here, he also was building up a lot of pressure in Freeman's mind. He was turning into a perfectionist—a player who raged each time he'd miss a shot.

He was leading the nation's major college scorers for a good part of the season, but then was bounced into second place by Furman's Darel Floyd. Freeman fumed at this

50 Teams are Eliminated in First Regionals

SPRINGFIELD — Defending champion Mount Vernon today led a field of 430 surviving contenders for the 1955 Illinois prep basketball crown.

The number of teams in the running for state honors as two games by 50 Monday night, was trimmed by 50 Monday night, as two games were played in each of 25 regional tournaments. The other 35 regional games open tonight.

Mount Vernon, rated only a dark horse possibility to repeat as state titlist, walloped Cisne 95-42 in the Fairfield regional. Albion outlasted Grayville 21-14 in the second game there, a ball-control match.

Pinckneyville, third-place winner in the 1954 state tourney, easily conquered Red Bud 85-47 at Campbell Hill. Du Quoin managed to escape with a 66-65 overtime win over Trico in the second game.

Alton launched its bid for a trip to the finals at Champaign with a 75-60 victory over Bethalto at Collinsville, one of the state's top regional. Wood River blasted Granite City 97-56 in the other contest.

At Peoria Manual, two Peoria teams emerged victorious in openers. Spalding spanked Chillicothe 81-47 and Woodruff topped East Peoria 71-60.

Biggest score of the night was registered by Springfield Lanphier, ranked the state capital's toughest team. The Lions steamrollered Morrisonville 114-45 at Virden. Northwestern of Palmyra followed with a 73-56 win over the hosts.

Decatur, co-champion of the Big 12 with Pekin, outgunned little Illinois 76-28 on the Decatur Lakeview floor. Warrensburg-Latham downed Mount Zion 67-58 in the second match.

Lawrenceville and Newton advanced to the regional semi-finals at Bridgeport. Lawrenceville smashed Noble 91-44 and Newton eked out a 57-52 win over Oblong.

Rockford East, a Sweet 16 entry last spring, rolled over Hononegah of Rockton 98-42 and Harlem beat Winnebago 57-30 at Belvidere. In another northern meet, Marmion defeated St. Charles 72-52 and Aurora East ousted West Chicago 74-61 at Aurora East.

McKinley 5th, 6th, Dorrisville 5th Grade Teams Win

Three games were played in the Harrisburg grade school basketball tournament Monday afternoon with McKinley's fifth and sixth grade teams winning and Dorrisville's fifth grade team also a victor.

The tournament opened with McKinley winning a close 14-12 decision over Horace Mann in a fifth grade game.

Then followed a McKinley win in sixth grade competition over Bayliss 34-20. The afternoon's program closed with Dorrisville defeating Dorris Heights 45-6 in a fifth grade game.

Two games were being played this afternoon. At 2:15 Dorrisville and Dorris Heights met in a sixth grade game and Logan and Liberty followed with a fifth grade contest.

Games will be played Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

West Frankfort Eliminates Galatia, 72-44

Sesser Defeats Christopher in Regional Play

West Frankfort and Sesser took opening night decisions in the Christopher regional tournament last night, eliminating Galatia and host Christopher from play. West Frankfort trimmed the Bearcats, 72-44, and Sesser sidetracked Christopher, 65-54.

Coach George Lubelt's Red Birds, favorites to win the regional crown, displayed too much height and rebounding for the underdog Galatia quintet. Galatia's offense never got underway, as the Bearcats were held to 10 points in each of the first three periods. They scored but 14 in the final quarter.

Despite their inability to get an offensive attack into high gear, Sammy Miranda's casters trailed only 30-20 at the half. The Red Birds, led by Peeler and Florian, collected nine straight points while holding their opponents scoreless in the earlier minutes of the third period. This gave the South Seven club a 39-20 advantage which Galatia could never make up.

West Frankfort led 20-10 at the quarter. Galatia played them on even terms in the second before fading in the third. The Cats trailed 51-30 as the fourth period commenced. Glen Clarida's 16 point total was the best for the losers.

The Mirandamen matched West Frankfort point-for-point at the foul line but hit only 13 times from the field while the Red Birds were dropping in 27.

By virtue of their victories, West Frankfort and Sesser will collide Wednesday night to determine which team will play in the finals Friday.

Giardello Favored To Whip Mueller in 10-Round Bout Tonight

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Joey Giardello, a slugging Easterner hoping to get back on the track toward a middleweight title shot, was a 3 to 1 favorite today to whip a worried Peter Mueller in a 10-round battle tonight.

Mueller, normally a happy-go-lucky battler from Cologne, Germany, was perturbed for the battle because of a wrangle between American and German representatives over his contract.

Joseph Thelen, who handles Mueller's interests in Germany, arrived to watch the bout with Giardello and vowed he would take his fighter home, "win or lose."

Looking AT Sports

By BILL MELTON

Mills Prairie, winner of the district basketball tournament played at Crossville last week, advances to regional play and will oppose Eldorado in the last game of the first round at Norris City. The game is scheduled for 8:30 p. m. Wednesday.

In winning the district title Mills Prairie defeated host school Crossville, 62-59, and then beat Equality in the title tilt, 56-51. The MP victory came under the heading of an upset as Crossville and Equality were considered co-favorites to take the championship.

Mills Prairie is the smallest high school in the tourney, having a total enrollment at the start of school last September of 83-42 boys and 41 girls.

Eight lettermen reported to J. H. Capshaw, starting his first year as coach, as the season opened, including Jim Merritt, third high scorer among White county high school cagers for the 1954-55 season.

Other letter winners were Ron Stewart 6-0 and Jerry Merritt 6-2, both of whom saw much action previously. Others were Richard McNeil, Bob Taylor, Dickie Wheeler, Robert Clark and Jim Whetstone.

Against Crossville last Thursday Jim Merritt scored 26 points, Jerry Merritt had 11 and Wheeler 12.

Stan Musial is getting some chuckles out of the sports pages these days. Players like Ralph Kiner and Irv Noren are saying that Stan should have a breeze setting a new home run record this year, now that the right field pavilion screen at his home park has been taken down. "In the first place," Musial told The Sporting News, "I'm not a home run hitter."

On the average, I don't try for them. And the pitchers will be pitching differently. They're just not going to let you pull many drives into right field. Ruth's mark will be safe for some time to come, at least as far as I'm concerned."

Cleveland General Manager

Hank Greenberg passed on this little story about his contract negotiations with players this winter.

Others: St. Louis, 4; Maryland and Canisius, 2 each.

Answering his phone, he heard the voice of a player not yet signed.

During the talk, the player apparently made an argument out of the fact that he had hit four homers last season. "You say you hit four last year?" Greenberg said. "That's nothing. I hit four in one day — during a Sunday double-header."

The National League may crown a new "iron man" this year. The record for consecutive games played is held by Gus Suhr. He played in 822 without break. Now, says The Sporting News, Richie Ashburn has a chance to break that mark this year. He needs to play in only 92 straight after the 1955 season opens to set a new record.

An interested spectator at the Metropolis - Eldorado basketball game Friday was John Del Kreuter of Metropolis, nephew of M. J. "Pitch" Kreuter of Eldorado. Young Kreuter is a professional baseball player, property of the Chicago Cubs. A first baseman, he played with Des Moines last season, but may advance to the Los Angeles Pacific Coast team this year. The Cubs had him on a quick-recall basis last season, so he may see some action in the big time during 1955.

West Rockford Tops Final Prep Ratings

SPRINGFIELD — Rockford West captured first place again today in the final United Press poll of the top 15 prep basketball teams in downstate Illinois.

Cumberland held 10th, one spot higher than a week ago, followed by Decatur and Pekin, the Big 12 champions. East St. Louis, Barrington and Thornton of Harvey completed the top 15.

Iowa Gains Undisputed First Place in Big Ten with 72-70 Win Over Gophers

CHICAGO — Iowa's Hawkeyes, pre-season favorites for the Big Ten basketball title, were only a game away from the throne today.

The Hawkeyes gained undisputed first place in the conference for the first time this season with a 72-70 victory over the previous front-runner, Minnesota, on the Gopher floor.

The win gave Iowa a record of 11 victories and two defeats, compared to a 10 and three mark for second place Minnesota, and meant that Iowa can do no worse than finish in a tie for the title.

The Hawkeyes can grab the undisputed title regardless of what Minnesota does in its final game simply by beating Michigan in their last game March 7.

Minnesota closes its season Saturday at home against Wisconsin and should the Badgers turn in a surprise win, then Iowa would gain the undisputed title no matter how it comes out against Michigan.

There seemed little reason to doubt the Hawks' ability to down the Wolverines, for in their first meeting, at Iowa on television Saturday, the Hawkeyes romped to an easy 96-84 win.

Monday night the problem was rougher. Minnesota's All-American Dick Garmaker and star guard Chuck Mencil kept the Gophers in the game all the way. But Bill Logan, plus the Iowa balance, was enough to produce the win.

Minnesota held a 35-33 lead at the half, but Iowa connected on two-thirds of its efforts from the field in the second half to pull ahead with two minutes to play. Logan dropped in 25 points compared to 27 for Mencil and 18 for Garmaker.

Garmaker, however, hung on to first place in the individual conference race with a 25.3 point per game average.

Show Balanced Attack
Iowa used only five men in the game and four of them—Carl Cain, Deacon Davis, Logan and Bill Seaberg—scored in double figures. Minnesota played seven men.

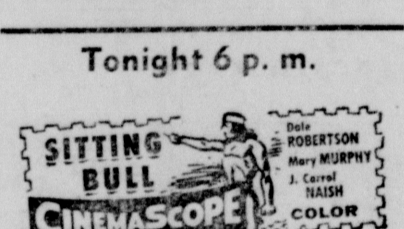

It was a revenge victory for the Hawkeyes as Minnesota gained an 81-80 win at Iowa City in their previous meeting.

In other games Monday night: Illinois assured itself of third place with an 81-75 win over Michigan. Michigan State advanced into a fourth place tie with idle Northwestern by trimming Indiana, 93-77, and Wisconsin climbed into an eighth place tie with Ohio State and Indiana by tripping Purdue, 75-73.

Al Ferrari of Michigan State was the individual star of the night, setting a new Michigan State scoring record with 35 points and establishing a new Big Ten record for free throws with 21. The old free throw record was 17 by Don Schlundt of Indiana against Michigan Jan. 3, 1953.

Limping Goose

THE STORY: Johnny Fletcher and Sam Cragg try skip tracing to make a few dollars to tide over their non-existent finances. For $10 they trace Alice Cummings, who, as a chorus girl, defaulted payments on a cheap coat. She hasn't enough to cover the debt, but she gives them a bank, shaped like a goose, in which she says is more than enough to cover the $17 she is short. She is in a hurry to get rid of them because Jess Carmichael, a playboy, is calling.

When they reached their room at the Forty-Fifth Street Hotel, Johnny took off his coat and sat down on the bed. Johnny shook the bank mightily and a coin fell to the bedspread. He picked it up. "An Indian head penny!"

"Hey, I ain't seen one of those in a long time," exclaimed Sam. "Nineteen hundred and seven," said Johnny, looking at the date on the coin. "I thought maybe it might be rare, but I guess this isn't old enough." He shook the bank for another moment or two and a dime fell out. A 1912 Barber head dime.

"Her grandmother must have saved these coins," said Johnny. He continued shaking the bank and a third coin fell out. This, too, was a penny, dated 1902.

"I'm hungry again," complained Sam. "All that walking." Johnny picked up a $5 bill from the money given to him by Alice Cummings. "Here, go and get yourself another steak. You need it—you haven't been eating regularly lately."

"Aren't you coming along?" "No, I've had enough to eat for a while. I'll keep at this." Sam hesitated, but his stomach won. "I'll be back in an hour."

Johnny continued with the bank and extracted another dime and a penny, in the next few minutes. Both were fairly old coins, although not worn much.

He got up to stretch a moment and then the door was opened and Mr. Kilkenny, the skip tracer, entered. He was grinning wickedly. "Don't you know?" Johnny asked angrily.

"A skip tracer never knocks," Kilkenny said cheerfully. "Nobody loves a skip tracer and nobody lets him in anywhere, if they can keep him out." His eyes went to the roll of bills on the bed. "Well, well, Fletcher, you made a score. I see. Not from Miss Alice Cummings?"

"Why not? I said I'd find her and collect, and I did." "Great," enthused Kilkenny. "I got to hand it to you. I wasn't going to drop by until tomorrow, but I happened to be across the street and saw your partner going by. He'll be back in a minute."

Johnny said uneasily. "Sure, but let's finish our business first."

He reached past Johnny and scooped up the bills. He flipped through them quickly. "Hey, there's only $32 here." "She didn't have enough."

"Well, fifty-two is close enough. You got to knock off a little once in a while."

"True," said Johnny, "and, like you said earlier, it doesn't really count if the client hasn't got the money. But this one did have most of it and I collected. So you owe me $10."

"Mmm," said Kilkenny. He pursed up his lips. "Okay, you won the bet. I'll give you $10 credit."

"Credit?" "Sure, on the bill you owe." "Now, wait a minute," said Johnny angrily. "I don't owe you any money."

"Your partner does. Same thing. You helped spend the money, I'll be a carrier boy."

U. S. Returns 7 Chinese Fishermen

HONG KONG (AP) — The United States today sent home seven Chinese fishermen to help soften Red China's attitude on the 15 imprisoned American airmen. The Chinese arrived here from the Philippines aboard an airliner accompanied by an American Red Cross representative. They were handed over to British authorities for transportation to Red China, probably Tuesday. The seven Chinese are fishermen who were rescued by a U. S. plane from tiny Triton Island in the South China Sea last May 16. They said their fishing boat sank in a typhoon.
